DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Abstract contains legal phraseology "means" in line 5.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(4) because reference character "18" has been used to designate both poppet valve and differential spring. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fenimore et al (US Patent No. 5,329,966).

Regarding claims 1 and 6, Fenimore et al discloses a system for delivering gas at a predetermined rate of flow, comprising: a flow controller having a diaphragm forming upstream and downstream chambers (Figure 1 element 13 and 20); a regulator for delivering gas to the upstream chamber of the flow controller at a substantially constant pressure (element 16), said controller having an outlet from the downstream chamber which is opened and closed by the diaphragm (element 14); an urging means for urging the diaphragm toward its closed position (element 16); and a valve for selectively adjusting the spring force to achieve the predetermined rate of flow without having to use a gas flow measurement device to monitor the flow rate (element 18).

Regarding claims 2 and 7, Fenimore et al discloses a controller and a regulator are contained in a single housing (Figure 3).

Regarding claim 3, Fenimore et al discloses a heating element for maintaining the gas in said system at a substantially constant temperature (Figure 2 element 38).

Regarding claim 4, Fenimore et al discloses a valve includes a stepper motor (Figure 2 element 40).

Regarding claim 5, Fenimore et al discloses an urging means (Figure 1 element 16) is a spring.

Regarding claim 8, Fenimore et al discloses the gas in the system is maintained at a substantially constant temperature (Col 4 line 19-21).

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Nelson, Jr. et al (US Patent No. 3,974,879)

Wilson et al (US Patent No. 4,096,746)
